AUDIENCE PERSONA

By: Maximus Attallah and Marcus Attallah

RICKY

Age - 21
Pronouns - He/Him
Major - Mechanical Engineering
Job - Restaurant Server
Hobbies - Working out, Hiking, and gaming
Struggles - Time management, focusing on assignments
Happiness - Hitting new gym goals
Social Media - YouTube and Instagram (reels)
Content Consumed - Short workout form tutorials, repair reels, and gaming clips
Opinions on Politics & Elections – Skeptical of general politics; ignores campaign ads and only pays attention if ballot measures directly change gas prices, wages, or commute costs

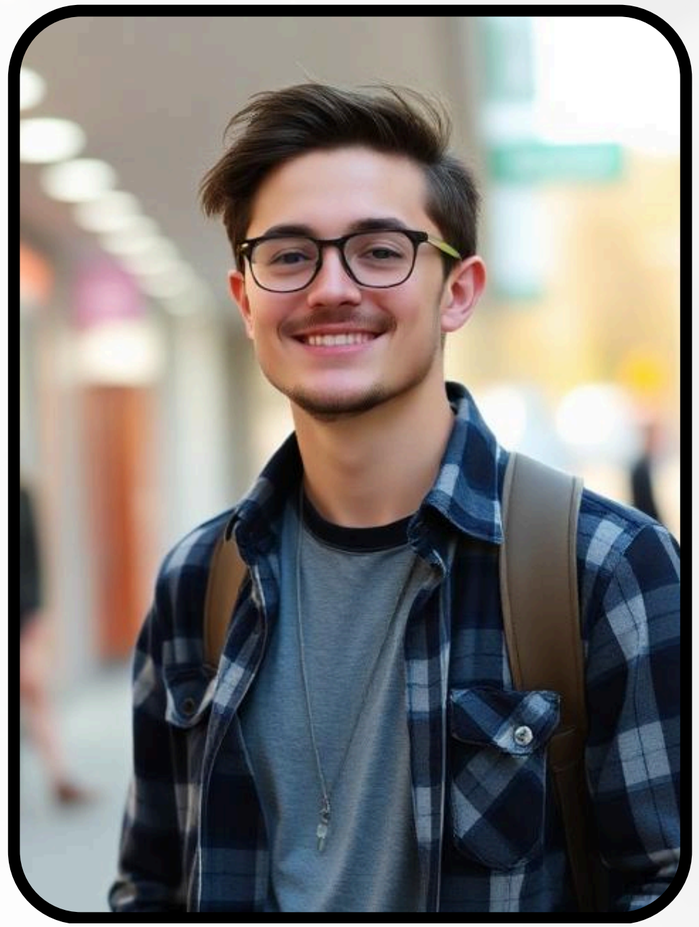

CHLOE

Age - 20
Pronouns - She/Her
Major - Hospitality
Job - Target
Hobbies - Baking and pottery
Struggles - Managing school and work
Happiness - Being around family and friends
Social Media - TikTok & Instagram
Content Consumed – Get Ready With Me storytimes, and thrift hauls
Opinions on Politics & Elections – Cares about social equality and community issues, but finds official ballot language confusing, dense, and intimidating

ALEX

Age - 23
Pronouns - He/They
Major - Business Administration
Job - IKEA
Hobbies - Hiking, basketball, and working out
Struggles - Balancing work and school
Happiness - Time to relax and a good coffee
Social Media - Instagram, TikTok, Twitter (X)
Content Consumed – Long-form videos on business ethics, and music reviews
Opinions on Politics & Elections – Distrusts establishment two-party politics; cares about worker rights, civil liberties, and corporate accountability

CCEP Election Fair: Content Pillars

- For Ricky: A quick Reel comparing gas/grocery receipts, showing how local propositions directly affect commuter budgets. Example: "Your budget is on the ballot. Make your voice heard!"

- For Chloe: A get ready video walking through simple, nonpartisan voting guides so students don't feel overwhelmed by legal jargon. Example: "Inform your vote it shapes your future."

- For Alex: A campus interview asking "Are sports political?", teasing Dr. George-Williams and Dr. Madva's CCEP panel. Example: "Engage, Listen & Discuss at Ursa Minor!"